SILENT NIGHT...

Holy night, silent night.

All is quiet —

Except my heart is torn by storm.

Burning flames consume me.

No matter how great the flood of tears

Intense the flames remain.

Silent is the night,

But not my heart.

The above is a drawing of the cover by Louis Denov for the new book, "The Evening Song", compiled and translated by Vyts Beliajus. The book just got off the press and can be obtained at $3.00 per copy. It contains fascinating stories, legends and fables of the Lithuanian people of the most entertaining caliber. Each story is accompanied by illustrations drawn beautifully and appropriately by Louis Denov who caught the spirit of each tale. Also forewords by Lawton Harris of the College Of The Pacific, Josephine Daužvardis, lecturer on the Lithuanian folklore, and by Beliajus.

The cover portrays the Lithuanian mother as she tells stories to her child behind the spinning wheel (Ratelis) while the sun dips behind the horizon of Dainava, the land of song. It is behind the "ratelis" that much of the folklore was perpetuated in every nation. It is a book of interest to every age group and an addition to your reading which you will not regret, but enjoy greatly. Obtain your copies for yourself or for a gift, whether it be for Christmas or a birthday. It will certainly make a great appreciated and enjoyed gift. Send your orders to V. F. Beliajus, 1550 Tenth Ave., San Diego 1, California.

THE FIRST DOZEN OF EVENING SONGS

went to the following people (in sequence of ordering): Mother M. Loyola of the Sisters of St. Francis, Pittsburgh, Pa. (Lith.), - 1, Wenetta Childs, Solana Beach, Cal. (Lith.) - 2, Marie Wilson, Chicago (Irish-combination) - 3, Steve J. Berko, Export, Pa. (Ukrainian) - 1, Laura Lee Bostwick, Grass Valley, Cal. (Irish Comb.) - 1, Earl Eppstein, Los Angeles, Cal. (Jewish) - 1, Paul J. Kermiet, Golden, Colo. (Czech) - 1, Hildred Rice, Corvallis, Ore. (Scand.) - 1, Emil Zunker, Forest Park, Ill. (German) - 1.

The Lithuanian Christmas tree at the Museum of Science and Industry on display along with trees of other nations until New Years. The Lithuanian tree, because of its unique geometric straw decorations, is possibly the most publicized tree in the world. If any of you travelers are ever in Chicago take in this museum, which is one of the finest, and also don't miss the Christmas trees if you are there before New Years.
